CLAIMS 2 MEN HE GAVE LIFT TOOK HIS AUTO

Colored Chauffeur Hikes Into Schriver's To Tell Story Of Hold-Up.

USED PISTOL TO GET HIS PAPERS

Cleveland Culver, colored, of Chicago, reported to state police here, Monday evening, that two hitch-hikers, whom he picked up near Harrisburg, held him up at the point of a pistol near Dillsburg and took the car he was driving, all of his papers and $10 in cash.

Culver told the authorities that he was the chauffeur for Mrs. D. A. Blodgett, of Washington, D. C., and that the stolen car, a 1931 model sedan, valued at $2,000, was her property. He said he was driving the car from Chicago to Washington.

Picked up Hikers
Near Harrisburg Culver said he picked up two young hitch-hikers. One of them sat in front with the driver and the other rode in the rear seat. Both were dressed like "bums," Culver reported.

South of Dillsburg, Culver said, the stranger in the rear seat pressed a pistol against his back and told him to stop the car and to turn over the wheel to the man in the front seat.

Culver said he complied immediately with the hold-up men's requests and one of the young men took the wheel and proceeded toward Gettysburg. Culver told the police the hold-up occurred about 6:30 o'clock.

Between Hagersburg and Schriver's cross roads Culver said the man at the wheel stopped the car, and the man with the gun ordered him to turn over his money and papers. After he had complied, Culver said the men ordered him out of the machine, and the pair drove away in the direction of Gettysburg.

Walked to Schriver's
Culver said he walked to Schriver's cross roads, where he told his story. State police were notified from Schriver's, the report being received about 11 o'clock, Monday evening.

Culver described one of the hold-up men as about 18 years old and five feet, eleven inches tall. The other was described as about 16 years old and five feet, six inches tall. Culver was unable to give the authorities a description of the clothing worn by the pair.

Culver also was unable to give police the license number of the sedan, although he said it bore Illinois license plates. The car was a black sedan.

State police said Culver was anxious to communicate with Jack Turner, whom Culver said was Mrs. Blodgett's butler, but they did not know whether he got the call through to Washington. State police said they did not know where Culver spent the night nor where he was today.

Blue Ridge League Will Be Dissolved

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 10 (AP)—Announcement that the Blue Ridge league, a class D baseball circuit, would be unable to operate this year was made Monday by J. Vincent Jamison, Jr., who has served as president since shortly after the league was organized in 1915.

He said insufficient financial assistance was in sight from major league clubs which had backed Blue Ridge league clubs in past seasons. The announcement came on the eve of a meeting of club directors, scheduled for today.

Chambersburg and Waynesboro in Pennsylvania, and Hagerstown and Frederick, in Maryland, composed the circuit last season.

Gettysburg at one time had a team entered in the league. Jimmy Dykes, athletics third baseman, at one time played on the local team as well as many others now in the larger circuits.

Fox and the benediction by the Rev. H. P. Beam.

A general invitation to attend the meeting has been extended to the people of Gettysburg by the camp and the request has been made by members of the organization that residents and business men of Gettysburg display the American flag for the entire day, Thursday, in honor of Lincoln.

WILL ROGERS says:

To the Editor of The Times:
Ft. Smith, Ark., Feb. 10.—Say, that Tulsa is a bear. We played there last night to exactly thirty thousand dollars at one single performance, making one hundred thousand dollars in the state of Oklahoma paid in the one week. It wasn't the attraction, it was the cause. These people down in these states know that there is folks that are hungry, and they are going to feed 'em as long as they are able. And say, they got a great gag down here; they don't just open up a soup kitchen and feed a lot of professional bums, they make 'em work, and then give 'em the money to buy some food. Played my wife's town, Rogers, Arkansas, today, and Fort Smith tonight.

Yours,
Will Rogers.

HAINES TELLS CIVIC CLUBS OF OPPORTUNITIES

New Congressman Sees Signs Of Business Revival In Coming Year.

HAINES OPPOSES WAGE CUTTING

A plea for optimism in business was sounded by Congressman-elect Harry L. Haines, of Red Lion, at a joint meeting of the Rotary and Lions' clubs at the Y. W. C. A., Monday evening.

"I am here to sound a note of optimism," Mr. Haines said. "Now is the time to get rid of pessimism. When man casts fear out of his heart and mind, the world is his oyster."

The Lions were guests of the Rotarians and Mr. Haines was the guest of the Lions' club. The new congressman from the York-Adams district was accompanied to Gettysburg by his secretary, Mr. Rothens.

Confer Here

At the outset of his talk, Mr. Haines said he wants residents of Adams county to feel that he is their representative in congress as well as the representative of residents of York county. He said he plans to come to Gettysburg once a week to confer with persons here who might have business with him.

"I believe we are living in the greatest era this country has ever known, and that just ahead lies better business than we have ever experienced," the speaker said. "We should see good times again within twelve months if everyone will cooperate."

"Nineteen hundred and thirty was called a year of depression and yet during that time we built and sold one automobile for every ten families in the United States, we made and sold 2 1/2 pairs of shoes for every person in the nation and gave employment to 40,000,000 people. During the year industries and banks paid out four and a half billion dollars in dividends."

Commonplace Nowdays
"Twenty years ago such figures would have sounded ridiculous; now they are rather commonplace, and it is reasonable to expect that within the next year or two even these figures will be greatly exceeded."

"A country such as the United States that has half of the world's food supply and the greatest home market for its products is certainly a land filled with opportunity."

"Before the boom times of 1929, prices were too high; now they are too low and the dollar is selling for much less than it actually is worth. Frick and Carnegie made millions buying from pessimists when the country was in the 'dumps' in 1873. Men with courage today will do like Frick and Carnegie and buy when prices are low."

Denounced Wage-Cutting
The speaker emphatically denounced wage cutting at the present time. "If more labor-saving machinery is invented and more men are thrown out of employment, it should be the duty of factories to reduce their working hours from eight to six and their working days from six to five."

Gray Robe" and "Little Chocolate Baby", by the quartet; soprano solo, Miss Maybelle Weaver, and "Blind Ploughman" and "The Long Day Closes" by chorus.

Hotel, 120 Years Old, To Be Torn Down In Baltimore

The old Farmers' and Planters' hotel, Hillen and Forrest streets, Baltimore, remembered by older generations of Gettysburg and Adams county, will soon be no more. More than 120 years old, the building will be torn down to make way for a new street in Baltimore.

The hotel was a favorite for farmers, cattle drovers and poultry men who had to stop in Baltimore over night because of its accommodations for horses. It had "double-decker" stables to the rear of the hotel and years ago more than a 100 horses could be counted in a single night. The advent of the automobile placed the ancient hostelry into the discard although it is still remembered in the country sections of Maryland and this section of Pennsylvania and by some, for more than its stables.

THIEF, FOND OF PIE, GETS ONE

Milk And Cash Also Taken At Home On Middle Street.

A sneak thief, who likes homemade cherry pie and also has a fondness for milk, appeared in Gettysburg today. He also exhibited the more commonplace greed for gold, taking $11.75 from the kitchen of the L. M. Slentz home, 31 East Middle street, some time this morning.

Mrs. Jennie Slentz, who maintains a boarding house, had finished baking three cherry pies and after taking them from the oven placed them on top of a cupboard just outside her kitchen door to cool. Some time before a boarder had paid her his lodging bill representing the missing $11.75.

Busy with her household duties, she laid the money on a plate on a kitchen table.

At 10:30 o'clock she went to the second floor of her home to hang out some clothing she had washed that morning. Her task took her about fifteen minutes. When she returned to the kitchen, she found the money had disappeared, as well as the largest of her cherry pies and a quart bottle of milk.

Mr. Slentz, who reported the theft to state police this afternoon, said his wife declared she had heard some one in an alleyway at the side of the house, but supposed it was he returning and paid no attention to it.

After she discovered the theft, she found that a gate entering the alley was unlatched.

PINCHOT GIVES 2ND MESSAGE

Assembly In Joint Session Hears Pinchot's Plans Explained.

Harrisburg, Feb. 10 (AP)—Governor Pinchot today delivered his second message to the present general assembly in joint session.

Taking the rostrum of the speaker at 11:55, the governor explained his plan for unemployment relief, road construction and investigation of the public service commission. Without a record vote, the Senate this morning passed finally the Earnest resolution providing for an investigation of the public service commission by the Senate committee on judiciary general.

While Senate was passing this resolution, Governor Pinchot was dictating a statement asserting "that the measure was and is intended to whitewash the public utilities."

Not a dissenting voice was heard when Lieutenant Governor Shannon put the motion and the resolution was adopted.

Senator Buckman, who is recognized as the Pinchot leader in the Senate, in a brief address withdrew his opposition to the motion and asked his friends to vote in its favor.

Buckman took the stand that while the investigation was not what the governor desired, the governor had no desire to judge the motives of the Senate in advance.

Clippinger's Vote
Senator Charles Clippinger, Greenacres, who represents the Adams-Franklin district in the state senate, voted with Senator Earnest on his motion to recommit his resolution to investigate the public service commission to committee Monday afternoon. The motion was opposed by the Pinchot forces in the senate.

Engineers Level Strong Criticism at Borough Water System In Report

"Impounding Dam Is Worthless," Remington, Vosbury And Goff Conclude In Analysis Made For Citizens' Committee In Gettysburg.

SOURCES AND DISTRIBUTION HERE ARE TERMED UNSATISFACTORY

An inadequate source of supply and an unsatisfactory system of distribution are among the criticisms of the Gettysburg Water company made in a report to the citizens' committee by the engineering firm of Remington, Vosbury and Goff, Camden, New Jersey, at a meeting at the fire engine house, Monday evening.

"The impounding dam at the pumping station is worthless," the engineer's report states, and the recommendation is made that a new dam be erected near the covered bridge for the impounding of four times as much water as at present.

He was admitted to the Annie Warner hospital where an inhalator was used to restore normal breathing. His condition was reported to be improved today by the hospital authorities.

He was assisted from the engine room by John Sanders, a fellow workman, who also suffered slightly from the gas. Roy Leatherman, the third man in the section of the plant directly affected by the gas, also suffered a slight dose of the ammonia gas.

Charles B. Dougherty, manager of the ice company, stated today that the cause of the blast had not been determined. He said it was the first accident of that nature that had occurred in the ice plant in its twenty years of operation.

MAP WILL CAUSE MAD SCRAMBLE

20,000 Miles Of Township Roads Outlined On Master Drawing.

Harrisburg, Feb. 10 (AP).—A great map of Pennsylvania, depicting every township road in the state, probably will become one of the most controversial documents of the 1931 session of the legislature.

The map is in the offices of Secretary of Highways Samuel S. Lewis and on it is marked tentatively the township roads which the state proposes to take over to maintain and build as part of the state system.

There are approximately 75,000 miles of township roads in the state and the Pinchot program calls for taking over 20,000 miles. In his recent message to the legislature, Governor Pinchot, revealed that it is the administration plan to take over from 25 to 27½ per cent of the township roads of each county.

Map Drawn Up
While the highway department has drawn up the map, showing from an engineering standpoint the roads which it believes should be taken over, the state legislature is the court of last resort. Many legislators are expected to have different ideas than the highway engineers.

Senator Fred W. Gelder, of Susquehanna, is the chairman of the senate committee on roads and Representative Charles F. Bidelstader, of Lycoming, is the chairman of the house committee. In these two committees all the recommendations of the members of the legislature will be threshed out and whittled into one great omnibus road bill which will be the basis for the final, official and approved map depicting the roads to be taken over by the state.

While Governor Pinchot said in his message to the legislature last week that maps of each county were now available showing a proposed location of the roads to be taken over as worked out by the township road supervisors and the highway department, this work has not yet been completed. When the work is done, as the governor promised, a book containing maps for each county will be supplied to members of the general assembly.

Few Given Glimpse
The governor's statement that the maps were available caused a rush of applications for a look at them, but all were met with the announcement that the individual maps were not ready. A few were permitted a glimpse of the master map in Secretary Lewis' custody.

Scores of individual bills have been offered in both houses to establish sections of township roads as parts of the state highway. All have been referred to the committees on roads, where they will be considered at the various forthcoming committee meetings.

The rush of members to recommend numerous stretches of roads in their home districts for addition to the state system has been graver than usual because of the stand which Governor Fisher took two years ago. Governor Fisher refused to permit more roads to be added to the state system until the present mileage was completed. He told the members of the 1929 session that it would be ridiculous to add more miles to the state system until the 4,500 unimproved miles already thereon had been built, a process which he estimated would require nine years to complete.

Governor Pinchot's campaign pledges and later substantiating statements have opened the doors wide for a real scramble with nearly every member attempting to get at least his share of the road "pie" for his home folks.

3 Maps Included
The report was accompanied by three maps, one showing the location of the present water mains in the borough and probable and necessary extensions, another showing the distance Marsh creek is impounded and probable impounding with the projected dam and the third showing the watershed of Marsh creek.

The report and maps were presented to the citizens' committee by Charles Delaney, of the firm of Remington, Vosbury and Goff, who explained the report and maps in detail. Members of the committee expressed themselves as well-pleased in every respect with the work by the Camden concern, and expressed the hope that the town would eventually take over the utility from the "foreign corporation" which now owns it.

P. C. Stock, president of council, attended the meeting of the citizens' committee, and said he was of the opinion that the report should be read and studied by every property owner in town so that all the facts may be known.

The cost of having the detailed survey made by the Camden firm was paid for by public subscription.

Hagerstown In Fight Over Two Kinds of Fire Company Plans

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 10 (AP).—Hagerstown is in the midst of a bitter fight over the respective merits of volunteer and professional fire-fighting systems, and Friday the respective merits of each are to be argued at a meeting called by the Chamber of Commerce.

The fight has been brought to a climax by a movement to organize a sixth volunteer company in the south end of the city, which, its residents assert, has sufficient fire protection. But opposition was voiced before the city council last week and also has been taken up with the Chamber of Commerce.

Intervals between rainfalls, the water flowing in the creek is that derived from water seeping through the ground into the creek. During these periods it is estimated that the daily minimum flow is about 1.5 million gallons per day.

"As a source of supply Marsh creek properly impounded will serve Gettysburg's water needs for many years to come," the report adds.

Appraise Property
An appraisal of the property of the water company was made in connection with the comprehensive survey, and forms a voluminous report in itself. The property appraisal includes the value of the physical assets, depreciation, the "going concern" value and the investment value, all of which total $210,000. The engineers point out, however, that they have no way of knowing whether or not the company could be purchased at that figure.

The survey also sets forth a proposed plan for the acquisition of the water company by the borough. This involves placing the proposition for the floating of a bond issue to cover the cost of the purchase before the voters at an election, the acquisition to be approved by the public service commission. The survey also goes into detail about the setup of a water department and tentative cost of service to consumers to meet outstanding obligations.

Reduction Of Rates
The citizens' committee also is urged to apply to the public service commission for a reduction of the present rates, irrespective of any improvement to the present plant, based on the appraisal of the property of the company by the engineers.

The engineering firm estimated that the expenditure of $26,000 would be required to build the new dam, modernize the pumping station, extend and inter-connect mains and dead ends, add new hydrants and make other necessary improvements.

An interesting sidelight of the report is that fact that between 1927 and 1930 the number of consumers of the Gettysburg water company decreased. In 1925 there were 1411 consumers. In 1927 there were 1545 consumers and in 1930 there were 1473 consumers.

Two Heavyweight Wrestling Bout
The second bout will be between George Tragos, of St. Louis, Olympic heavyweight champion, and Carl Pojello, Lithuanian champion.

These two bouts are expected to furnish many thrills for the sporting fraternity who plan to attend Wednesday's drawing card at Hagerstown.

The McMillan-Hill bout is expected to be a "battle-royal" with both men confident and eager to cop the match. A victory in this bout will place the winner in the front ranks of the wrestling contenders for the wrestling crown and a likely match with Jim Londos, Greek champion and selected by more than 24 state commissions as the heavyweight wrestling champion of the world.

Schmelling's appearance in the ring is also expected to attract a large audience. The first bout starts at 8:30 o'clock.

POLICE KILL TWO

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP).—Two unidentified men were shot to death Monday by police as they left a cigar store they had robbed. A third man was captured.

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP).—Major General Smedley D. Butler would have faced a trial court, had it not been called off, upon the specific charge of "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Publication of the 1,000-word list of charges and specifications against Butler came simultaneously Monday with an authoritative disclosure that the decision not to court-martial him was reached Saturday night after a series of secret conferences with high Washington officials.

What part, if any, President Hoover had in this decision was not made known. It was said definitely, however, that the "Butler incident" was settled hours before the carefully concealed conference between Secretary Adams and General Butler at the deserted navy department Sunday morning.

The navy department announced late Sunday the court-martial had been called off, the charges withdrawn, and the outspoken marine reprimanded. Accompanying was a severe letter from Secretary Adams and an ex-planation and apology from Butler, both dated Sunday.

General Butler would have been tried next Monday in Philadelphia. He was charged with public statements picturing Premier Mussolini of Italy as a hit-and-run driver who had not stopped after killing a child.

News From Neighboring Counties

8 HURT IN ACCIDENTS

NEAR YORK SUNDAY

York.—One person was seriously injured and seven slightly injured in eight automobile accidents in York and York county over the week-end. Most of the accidents were caused by the slippery condition of the roads as a result of the downfall of sleet and snow on Saturday. There was one arrest.

Harry Howett, 45 years old, 232 Park place, who was struck by an automobile as he was changing the trolley on a street car at the end of the Queen street car line, was the most seriously injured. Two hours later George L. Bair crashed into the same street car in the 500 block on South Queen street.

WOMAN'S SLAYER IS SEEKING FULL PARDON

York.—Petition of Ervin J. Spangler, of Thomasville, for a full pardon or release on parole for the unexpired term of his sentence, was filed before the pardon board at Harrisburg. Spangler is serving a ten-year sentence for the slaying of Mrs. Sarah Meckley. The petition has been presented to the board by Attorney Adam F. Geesey, Jr.

Mrs. Meckley was shot on the night of August 28, 1925, during a quarrel with Spangler in Baumgardner's woods, a little more than a mile south of this city. The prisoner maintained at the trial and still insists that the shooting occurred during a struggle with the woman in which she cut him with a razor and in which he attempted to take a pistol from her which she intended to use to shoot him.

SEEKS DAUGHTER, 17, BELIEVES ELOPED

Hagerstown.—With the whereabouts of his 13-year-old daughter and James Gorman still a mystery, Mrs. Inez Gerling, this place, Monday night had a description of the pair broadcast from one of the larger New York radio stations.

The daughter, Janice, 13, eloped with Gorman, 17, who lives at the same address, on January 20, and according to a letter received from Martinsburg from the daughter, were married. When and where the ceremony was performed is not known.

Gorman, formerly of Rhode Island, has been living here for some time with his family.

HUSBAND EMPHATIC BUT SO IS LODGER

Frederick-Augustus Parker, this place, had a bad start in the rehearsing of his domestic grievances before Justice Motter Saturday morning.

Parker had taken the stand to defend himself from his wife's charge of non-support and desertion. "Judge, as far as that woman is concerned, I'm not going to pay her anything," he said emphatically.

The judge was a shade more emphatic. "Well, I say you are going to pay her," he replied, and verified his statement by consigning Parker to spend three months in the house of correction unless he began making arrangements for the support of his wife and three-year-old son. The father testified he had given money and a new suit to the child, but that his wife spurned his contributions.

Unless there is further substantial precipitation in the next two months, rationing of water will be inevitable next summer, officials said.

The CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

By Herbert Adams

SYNOPSIS: Annabelle Querdling's murder remains unsolved, as Jimmie Haswell, young lawyer, assists police Superintendent Richmond and Constable Roscoe in their probe for clues. Marjorie Blake, her niece, has found her crushed fatally by a stone image in her garden, the tragedy occurring just after Marjorie and Dr. Netherton have been told that Marjorie's marriage would forfeit her inheritance. Evelyn, Marjorie's sister, and her fiancé, Lionel Duckworth, say they were singing in the house when Marjorie reported her tragic discovery, and they and the servants confirm her story, while Major Gresham explains that he had just reached the grounds on his way to see Miss Querdling when he heard the news. Disappearance of Joe Allen, discharged gardener, points to his guilt, while one-armed Captain Stirling, friend of the nieces, surprises Jimmie by directing the conversation to the fact that he owns a car similar to one of the two seen near the grounds on the fatal night.

Chapter 12

TRUE INQUEST OPENS

It was Evelyn who broke the awkward tension produced by Sterling's strange attitude.

"Can't we talk of something more cheerful?" she asked. "If it must be crime, perhaps Mr. Haswell will tell us about some of his cases."

Jimmie, not given to discussing his exploits, related an instance where Scotland Yard's ingenuity had beaten him to a solution of a mystery. He praised its detectives and said that it would be a good idea to let first offenders see the Yard's organization for detecting criminals.

"Delightful idea," sneered Stirling. "Would-be criminals conducted through Scotland Yard. Might help them a lot. No doubt it is easy to catch old offenders. One might still do a first crime and get away with it."

Again there was uneasy silence. Evelyn shivered slightly. "Shall we go in?" she asked. "It's getting cold."

As they moved toward the house, Jimmie slipped to Marjorie's side. "This is a trying time for you," he said gently, "but don't worry too much. The truth will be discovered."

"Can they prove Joe Allen did it?"

To Jimmie the form of the whispered question sounded strange. She did not ask if Allen committed the crime, but if it could be brought home to him. Was it tense eagerness for proof? Or could it be that other fears or something approaching knowledge would let her sacrifice a dread alternative?

"If he did it," answered Jimmie, "he is not likely to escape. Not one murderer in fifty does."

The girl shivered, though it was a warm night.

"Your sister said you had not been sleeping," he went on. "Why don't you get a sedative from the doctor?" She made no answer, and he added, "Have you seen Dr. Netherton today?"

"No."

"His mother said he was busy. I suppose he couldn't get over this evening."

"We did not ask him."

So Bill Netherton had not been asked. This to Jimmie proved they were not openly lovers, or he would have come without being asked. If they were lovers in secret, they might wish to keep apart until Richmond's suspicions were lulled. Jimmie knew there must be something hidden, but it baffled him. Why had Stirling come to the house? How was he concerned?

The dark-eyed Janet served them coffee and cakes in what was still called the young ladies' room. Stirling suggested playing cards, but the idea was not much liked, and when Duckworth declined to sing, all seemed to agree that music and mirth would hardly be seemly in the house of sorrow. Then Jimmie had a happy thought. He turned to Duckworth.

"Is it as easy for singers to get engagements today as it was in the days before the movies and other modern amusement virtually eliminated the concert halls?" he asked.

Duckworth, without directly answering the question, pointed to the modern demand that variety programs include two or three good singers. "Listeners demand it," he added.

"Eating of listeners," said Donald, "now does the radio affect you?"

"Badly. The broadcasters hire a dozen artists and put hundreds out of employment."

"How about the graphophone?" continued Jimmie.

"I hate it. There are royalties, of course, from records, but they reduce attendance at entertainments."

"I would never have one in my house," said Evelyn warmly.

"Have you ever tried one?" asked Jimmie.

"No. Aunt Annabelle would never allow it."

And so the talk went on, at least making the evening more pleasant. When Jimmie returned with his friends to their home a message was awaiting him, left, the maid said, by a policeman on a bicycle.

It was from Richmond and read:

We were right, J. A. is clear. He left the Brown Bear at 8:30 rode straight to Brighton near Sheffield to say good-bye to a sister in service there. Arrived before 9:30. Her employer, Colonel Weisted, saw him. Offered to put him up for the night and to give him temporary job. J. A. stayed. Cast-iron alibi. So we are where we were. Hope you will be able to attend inquest tomorrow. G. R.

Certainly this development made the approaching inquest more important. At any rate, by the time Monday morning arrived nearly every one present for the investigation knew of Joe Allen's alibi.

When Jimmie and Nancy Wade reached Querdling Institute, where the inquest into the slaying of its donor was scheduled, the hall was crowded. Police from Bradford were directing matters, but Constable Roscoe never felt himself quite so indispensable. Audrey Winford sat with Jimmie and Nancy, whose husband had work for the day and could not attend.

Nine men were on the jury—three farmers, two private residents and four shopkeepers—and three women, one being hostess at the Brown Bear. They were sworn, taken to see the body and with solemn faces filed back and took their seats.

Dr. Burbeck, the middle-aged coroner for the district, after a few preliminary remarks called Evelyn Blake as the first witness. Jimmie thought that Richmond, who was near the coroner's table, had some reason for the choice.

Evelyn, pale and distressed, tried to steady her voice and answer without nervousness. After giving Miss Querdling's name and age, she said that she, her sister and her brother, in London, were the only living relations she told of her aunt's habit of sitting in the Dutch garden and explained, so far as she knew, how each member of the household was employed on the night of the tragedy. As before, she stated she was in the house with Mr. Duckworth, when Marjorie brought the news. There was only one inquiry that hinted any particular line of thought in the coroner's mind.

"You are engaged to be married to Mr. Duckworth?"

"I am."

"Is your sister, Miss Marjorie Blake, engaged or is there any engagement pending?"

There was perhaps a moment of hesitation, but the answer "No" was quite firm.

"Now, I must ask you this. Did you leave that sitting-room or approach your aunt while she was in that garden?"

"I did not."

"Thank you. That is all."

Evelyn left the box and resumed her seat between Duckworth and Marjorie some distance from Jimmie and his friends.

Henry Roscoe, the next witness, was impressed by the importance of his role. He told the time he was called to Merrow Craig where he found that the body had been taken to the house. He produced a plan of the property and a photograph of the Dutch garden, with its fallen image and its unbroken companion still in position.

As the exhibits were handed to the jury Dr. Burbeck asked the constable if the figure could have fallen by accident.

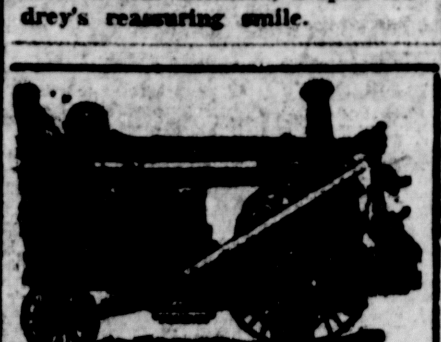

"No, sir. It couldn't. The wall it stood on had a level surface and the figure was well balanced."

Roscoe had seen the two images before and declared they were identical.

"Now look at this photograph," the coroner directed, handing him a picture of the unbroken figure. Suppose there were a flaw in the stone of one or both of those legs, might not the figure topple over by its own weight?"

Roscoe looked at the figure and scratched his head doubtfully. There was a tense silence in court. Perhaps after all the mishap had a perfectly natural explanation. Copyright, 1930, J. B. Lippincott Co.)

Nothing wrong about a chance meeting at church, Netherton tells the coroner tomorrow. But he faces a real dilemma, despite Audrey's reassuring smile.

SEEK SLAYERS OF COUNCILMAN

Theory Is Held That He Died Because Enemies Feared Testimony.

Cleveland, Feb. 10 (AP).—Stirred by the mysterious killing of former Councilman William E. Potter, Cleveland citizens clamored Monday night for a solution and arrest of the killers. Every available city detective was put to work on the case, with Police Chief Matowits in personal command.

Two suspects were arrested and numerous persons questioned, but no explanation of the murder had been found since Potter's body was discovered in an apartment house here Sunday night with a bullet hole through his head.

Believe He Was Feared

The outstanding theory was that Potter was slain to seal his lips against further testimony in Cleveland's playground scandal, which ready has sent two prominent men to the penitentiary. Another theory offered was that Potter knew too much about some other money-making racket and was killed by gangsters who were afraid of him.

Potter himself had faced trial three times in the playground case but each time was acquitted. He had been scheduled for trial again Monday on a charge of perjury in previous testimony.

Parole Is Suspended

Former Councilman Liston G. Schooley and his son, Liston, Jr., are still in the penitentiary for their part in the playground deal. Liston, Jr., was to have gone on parole today, but the state board of clemency Monday postponed action until June, due to the Potter killing.

Tentacles of the swindle once emmeshed several others. City Clerk Fred W. Thomas, like Potter, won acquittal. Harmon G. Atwater, real estate man, who engineered the transaction, is at liberty on a suspended sentence. Robert Bunowitz has been sentenced for helping Atwater hide from justice. How far the other ramifications of the deal extended no one has revealed, but detectives believe Potter was killed because someone thought Potter knew and was ready to tell.

Kills With Blows And Then Blows Self To Fragments

Indiana, Pa., Feb. 10 (AP).—After killing his wife with a pick handle, Frank Verhovek, 42, went to the cellar of his home at Coy, a mining village, and killed himself with a charge of dynamite. His body was blown to bits.

The coroner said Verhovek caught his wife on the porch and dragged her into the kitchen, where he crushed her skull with a pick handle.

He then went to the cellar and lay down on the dynamite. The crime was discovered when the village was shaken by the explosion.

An Evening Thought

When we are unhurried and wise we perceive that only great and worthy things have any permanent or absolute existence; that petty fears and petty pleasures are but the shadows of the reality.

NEW YORK
Day by Day
by O.O. McIntyre

New York, Feb. 10.—Recently my wife and I made a brief sentimental journey to Cincinnati, the city from whence we came to New York twenty years ago. We stopped at the Sin-ton where we spent our three day honeymoon, revisited scenes we well, mingled with old friends.

So many things happen to a people and a city in a span of twenty years. Where once the Emery Arcade with its jinkle-jumble of cubicade shops stood through a block there stands a 50-some storied campaign housing two huge department stores, a mammoth hotel and myriad lesser enterprises.

The sluggish canal whose network of foot-bridges led to that beer-ipping Elysium, known as Overthe-Rhine, has flowered into sweeping boulevard spinning with motor traffic. Only Jimmy Widemeyer remains. Jimmy, the "millionaire newsboy," who sings of disaster on a Fountain Square corner!

Cincinnati is a boss ridden city that threw off its yoke and has, so it seems to me, taken its place in the sun and deservedly won the right to its middle-west sobriquet—
The Queen City. It is hallowed for me with tender sentimentalities.

There I went as a wide-eyed, garmouled country boy agape with yokel bewilderment. There as a $30 a week obscurity on the outer rim of a cppy desk I led my small town sweetheart to the altar. There I found some of the most loyal friendships I have ever known.

Cincinnati has a warming hospitable charm seeping doubtless across the shimmering Ohio from the blue-grassed dells of Ole Kaintuck, stretching so peacefully and pleasantly on yonder side of the river.
People appear so glad to see you that you go about with a queer little choke.

Most of the joyous, care-free gazetteers I knew are steadi-ly by realities. Many heads are thatched with snows of passing winters. There came sudden jills when our eyes brimmed and which we turned off with gusts of delicious laughter.
Laughter through the teeth!

I have a pardonable pride in the rise of that old newspaper gang to eminence. There is that former rollicking flaneur, Russ Wilson—he of the gaudy straw hat bands—now the austere and honorable Russell Wilson, Mayor of Cincinnati and headed for the United States senate.

Frank Rostock, erstwhile sporting editor who gnashed his teeth and tore up telephone books when the Reds lost, now president and editor of the amazingly successful paper on which we worked. Alfred Segal, whose ringing editorials have overthrown local corrupt governments but prefers to be known as a reporter. So many more—Roy Howard, Ray Long, Phil Simms, Bill
Kramer, H. T. Webster, W. H.
Brown, Bob Brinkerhoff, Bill Culkins, Eugene Walter, Marlen E. Pew, Ren Mulford, Jr., Milton Bronner.
And so on and on.

At the Sinton, John Horgan, the resplendent day clerk in my time and now general manager and even more resplendent, touched off my vanity by having a silver engraved plate tacked to the door of the suite reading: "This suite is occupied by O. O. McIntyre." Above a similar plate honored Admiral Byrd. Someone observed to Lloyd Scholl, one of our gang and now energetic manager of the local Western Union:
"Two birds in the one cage!"

"Yeah," replied Scholl, "an eagle and a cuckoo!"

Edgar Guest, Detroit poet, happened to be in town and accompanied me to a haunt of our old newspaper crew. It was my first appearance in years and the reception, if I do say it, was enthusiastic. There were embraces, shouts and back slaps. On my way back to our hotel Eddie remarked: "People can't be that glad to see anyone." There's a sunshine poet for you!

The only sad note to my trip was that due to my short stay I did not get around to the balliwick of my old cronies of the composing room—
Eddie Craig, Paul Breedon, Riggs, Curry and others. They saved me from many breakfastless Monday mornings.

I confess the conceit over my reception was slightly punctured at the depot homeward bound. In the waiting room a beautiful lady rushed up, kissed me, pinned a rose

Butler Escapes
With Reprimand;
No Court-Martial

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP).—The Navy Department Sunday abandoned plans for the court-martial of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler and issued a formal reprimand instead.

This action was taken by Secretary Adams after receipt of a letter from the outspoken marine officer explaining his remarks about Premier Mussolini in a recent speech at Philadelphia.

Butler said he understood his speech was to be confidential. He added he regretted the incident
"and the fact that my indiscreet remarks have caused embarrassment to the government."

Replying to this letter, Secretary Adams condemned the speech but added in view of Butler's letter "expressing regret" and his "long record of brilliant service" the court-martial would be abandoned.

SUNDOWN
STORIES

THE FIRST PARTY

By Mary Graham Bonner

They got into the plane and flew to a place some distance away, landing on top of a house. Here the Little Black Clock left them to take a trip with the pilot. It was like another house they had visited long before when the Clock had turned the time forward. The front door was up near the roof.

They had evidently been expected, for the mother of the children who lived in the house met them
and said to all the other children:
"Here are my friends, John and Peggy. I told you that I expected two new friends."

The other children made friends quickly. Peggy particularly liked a little girl whose name was Minna, and John found a boy named Louis ever such good fun. They all played games when suddenly Minna said: "Now we must go to the second party."

"Oh, yes," said Peggy. "I heard there was to be another."

"There's to be a wonderful party right across the continent, and we can get there in a short time," said Minna. "I'll take you in my plane if you wish."

Just then Peggy noticed the refreshments were being passed around. That ice cream they had when the Clock turned the time forward always tasted as though made of some delicious cloud material.

"Oh, we don't want to leave quite yet," said Peggy. "We're having such a good time here."

They talked it over for a while.
Minna couldn't bear to miss another party and Peggy thought it a pity to leave when she was having such an excellent time.

Minna left in her plane. Then Louis came along with John and said: "You may be late for the next one. Unless you're ahead of time you're behind time."

John laughed. The world in the future was quite funny, but he and Peggy stayed at the first party and so did some of the others, though mostly they went away and those who lived in the house met them and now came to this! What an idea, John thought.

Grocer's $18,000 Home

Lancaster, Feb. 10 (AP).—The suburban home of David Mose-mann, Lancaster grocer, four miles west of here on the Lincoln highway, was destroyed by fire early Sunday with a loss estimated by the owner at $18,000. Mosemann with difficulty rescued four sleeping children from a second floor bedroom.
Firemen from three nearby towns had confined the fire to one wing, but lost the battle when the water supply from a well gave out.

Make system alkaline to ... Stop Colds
QUICK!

Get Rid of Colds Before They Weaken You, Make You Liable to More Serious Troubles.

Nowadays it's important to stop your cold quick before it weakens your resistance to more serious trouble.

Any of the older treatments will bring relief—after a time. But thousands say this new way is the quickest of any.

Begin when you feel a cold coming. Take a tablespoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water, morning, noon, and night, the first day. Do same the second day. Then only at night. Colds reduce the alkaline balance of your system. That makes you feel achy, feverish, weak.
Phillips Milk of Magnesia relieves this; and restores the alkaline balance.

Doctors prescribe Phillips Milk of Magnesia; hospitals use it. Millions know how it relieves sour stomachs, gas, indigestion, constipation and other symptoms of too much acid. Get the genuine.

MEN AND HORSES BURNED IN FIREFlames Disastrous To Thoroughbreds In California.Oakland, Calif., Feb. 10 (AP).— Four men and fifty or more valuable horses, many of them champions and all of them well known thoroughbreds, were burned to death here Monday by a fire that swept thegrounds of the Oakland National Horse show at the rear of the City auditorium. The horses were entries in the sixth annual horse show that closed Saturday night.The bodies of the four men were identified by friends and employers as those of John J. Thomas and Michael McCarthy, employees of the Carnation Farm stables, Pomona, California; George Uhling, 55, San Francisco, stableman employed by the horse show, and "Big Harvey," Negro hostler.The value of the horses burned was estimated by show officials at $300,000 and the value of equipment destroyed at $250,000. Only the fact that several owners had shipped their entries Sunday probably saved many other fine horses from a fiery death.The cause of the fire remained a mystery Monday with firemen and city officials inclined to believe it originated with a carelessly tossed cigarette. Tom Scott, of Mrs. Muriel Vanderbilt Church's stables,Newport, Rhode Island, said he believed the fire was deliberately started.

"SILVER

ONE DOLLAR
DO THE WORK OF TEN

MORE than 80 billion dollars of our annual trade volume represent business transacted on credit. By means of credit the average dollar is made to do the work of ten. This credit fabric is held together by Stock Fire Insurance.

Underlying this vast commercial turnover, serving to give it the stability which credit demands, are the more than 150 billions of dollars the stock companies have at risk against fire, with an almost equal amount covering hail, windstorm, earthquake, and other hazards.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

performs many functions. The principal ones are: 1—Payment of losses; 2—Prevention of fire; 3—Stabilization of credit.

Stock Fire Insurance thus provides a service that makes the uncertain certain; that protects the individual's investments and shields him against disaster; that enables destroyed properties to be replaced.

"I Don't Feel
Just Right, Doc"(The Common Way of Describing Acidity)

You're not sick, yet not well. Your stomach isn't just right, you don't sleep well and you tire easily. Your color isn't what it should be and you probably look drawn. A sort of vague, run-down feeling is one of the first symptoms of acidity. Acidity not only causes acid-indigestion with gas, sourness and burning, but sets up poisons which sap strength and vitality and makes you feel physically and mentally low. Magnesia Oxids, developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house, correct acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxids generate nascent, or active oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movements of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

Make this Acidity Test To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxids from People's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full.

MOORE HAS HAD
VARIED CAREERPinchot's Field Marshal Once Chaplain In Army In Egypt.

Harrisburg, Feb. 10 (AP)—Any knowledge of generalship picked up by D. Glenn Moore while he was chaplain of British troops in Cairo, Egypt, will serve him well in the coming weeks.

For Moore is the field general of the administration in the house of representatives, a job which requires coolness, and courage under fire, resourcefulness in matters of strategy and that rare quality of leadership necessary to sway a large group of men and women.

Representative Moore's career has been divided between the ministry and the newspaper profession. Studied Ministry Born in the county in which he now lives, Moore was educated in Washington and Jefferson college and in Allegheny Theological seminary. From the latter school he was graduated in 1901. From there he went to the American Mission Boys School in Cairo, Egypt, where he taught until he was made a chaplain in the British forces in Egypt in 1904. He served in that capacity until 1905 when he returned to Washington, Pa., where he became editor of the Washington Observer.

The Moore public service commission, investigation resolution which he guided through the house against strong opposition and an election code which he will bring before the House this week are the only two measures of state-wide interest which Moore will propose this term, he said.

Interested in Country Coming from a small town in a rural county, Moore has been interested in country problems since he entered the legislature in 1924. He was instrumental in organizing the Legislative League, and organization of rural representatives, and has been its secretary since 1925.

He also was one of the founders of the Pennsylvania election association which backed the bills for the introduction of voting machines.

A widower, with one daughter married and a son, John Moore, a student in the Wharton School in Philadelphia, Moore's interests lie almost entirely with his editorial and legislative work and some historical research. He has written numerous articles on the history of his native county, and is a member of the Washington county historical society.

Women To Be Used
To End Labor Crisis

Moscow, Feb. 10 (AP)—Employment of hundreds of thousands of women in industries to overcome the present serious shortage of labor is being considered by the government of the Soviet Union.

With thousands of jobs for which there are no takers, the country today has the greatest shortage of labor in its history. With millions of women inactive it is believed the problem could be solved by pressing them into service. The children would be cared for by the state while their mothers are working.

"The problem of attracting hundreds of thousands of women to industrial labor is acute," said an official announcement. "In order to solve this problem as painlessly as possible the government, together with trade unions and other social organizations, has elaborated a number of measures directed toward freeing women from domestic work and securing children with the necessary care while the mothers are at work."

Nicknames Leaders
In British Politics

Morecambe, Eng., Feb. 10 (AP)—The nicknames of American gangsters are being applied to British political chieftains by Colonel L. C. S. Amery, former colonial secretary, in political speeches which he is making about the country.

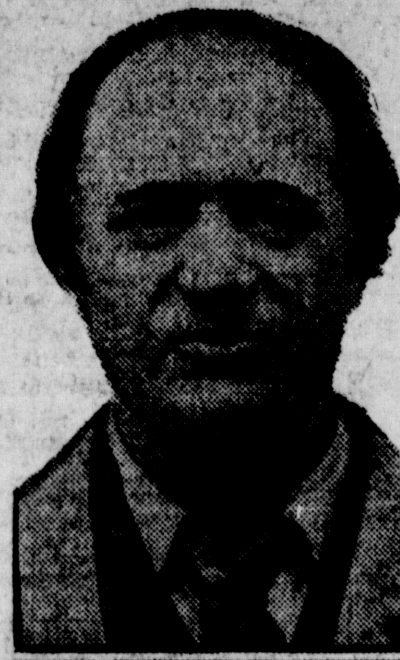

Referring to an alleged Liberal-Labor entente in parliament which is keeping the Labor government in office, Colonel Amery Sunday night declared that "Scarface Mac"—Premier MacDonald—and "Slipper David"—meaning David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader—had fixed up a deal to take "Honest Stan"—Stanley Baldwin—for a ride. "Just as much and no more political principle is involved in this pact as there is in any of the compacts which are made between rival gangs of Chicago racketeers to keep others from their pitch and to share the loot."

F. and M. Scores Its Greatest Mat Triumph

Lancaster, Feb. 10—Franklin and Marshall college's mat team scored one of the greatest triumphs in local wrestling history Saturday night by defeating the University of Chicago grapplers, 27 to 3.

Captain Dyer, of Chicago, champion 145-pound grappler of the Big Ten and runner-up in the national collegiate last year, defeated Saltzman, of F. and M., in the 175-pound class and scored the lone points for the western team.

HEALTH TALK

"The other day two young women complained to the medical director of a large corporation that the room in which they worked with fifty other clerks improperly ventilated. Investigation indicated that the company had furnished ventilators but that their use was left to the whims of the occupants. The significant fact in this situation was that by far the greater majority of these indoor workers were not only willing for, but actually insisted upon, a minimum of outside air and a temperature far in excess of safety," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, today.

"Indeed, it is almost safe to say that the attitude of the average person regarding heat and ventilation is likely to be based upon his own idea of physical comfort rather than upon the more logical foundation of health requirements.

"While modern office buildings frequently regulate heat and fresh air automatically, the home on the other hand is still one's castle with which one can do much as he pleases. And unfortunately he pleases to do entirely too much with heat and too little with ventilation.

"For many, outdoor air loses caste just as soon as it becomes chilly or cold. And often the persons who are most prompt in turning their backs upon it are those who glory in their wholesale use of nature's charms during the warm months.

"Summer or winter, however, the best air that one can breathe is to be found on the outside. It follows that a low temperature is absolutely no excuse for any person to crawl into his shell, hug the radiator and attempt to insulate himself from the fresh breezes. What one should do is to make use of the zestful winter air by betting as much of it as possible into the body daily. Long walks and adequate ventilation in the homes are ways by which this can be best accomplished.

"Hibernating is all right for bears and hothouses are ideal for tender plants, but neither of these conditions, so frequently indulged in by many, are healthful for human beings. Therefore, keep the inside temperature to 68-72 degrees, flush the house daily with fresh air, use ventilators in the rooms most occupied, and have large size moisture pans constantly filled with water attached to the radiators. These simple rules, if adopted, will go a long way in removing the menace of colds and worse, which too often get their start in over-heated and de-vitalized bodies. Keep the home fires burning but keep them and yourself under control."

Cannon To Be Up
Before New Inquiry

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Senate campaign funds committee has decided to inquire into the handling of anti-Smith campaign funds in Virginia in 1928 by Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

Officials of three banks have been summoned to appear before the committee Wednesday to testify regarding the expenditures. Bishop Cannon testified before the Senate lobby committee last year that he received $55,000 from E. C. Jameson, of New York, for use in the drive against Alfred E. Smith. Only half of this amount was accounted for, the bishop walking out on the committee without informing it what was done with the remainder.

Bullet Shuns Him;
Gets Nasty Burn

New Haven, Feb. 10 (AP)—Thomas Como, 44, owes his life to the fact that bullets sometimes act strangely. With his son, Stephen, 10, Como went to a store Saturday to return an ice scraper. There the boy picked up a rifle and accidentally fired it. The bullet deflected by Como's clothing, inflicted an eight-inch burn on his abdomen and came out through his trousers.

GETS MAD AND STRONG

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 10 (AP)—Christopher Chiporibus, 50, threw two muscular hold-up men out the back door Saturday night when they had the nerve to enter his variety store and wave a gun in his face. "I guess I got sudden strength, I was so mad," said Chiporibus.
